PREFACE.

We lay the present Book before our Patrons, believing that our first efforts to produce a Directory of Lee County worthy the reputation of the same, will be appreciated by those who have stood by us and their own interests.

It is no small undertaking to canvass and compile a work of this kind, containing, as it does, a Gazetteer of the County, with City Directories of Keokuk and Fort Madison, together with a complete Business Directory of the entire County.

The Historical and Descriptive sketches of the County and the several Townships will, no doubt, be read with interest, containing, as they do, plain, simple facts which neither time nor labor have been spared in procuring. In this connection we are under many obligations to friends for the perusal of their private letters in connection with the early history, and for their willingness in answering our inquiries.

We point with considerable pride to the work itself and matter contained therein; also with satisfaction to the manner in which it has been executed and to its general appearance. Much more might be said of the Book and its contents, but the limited space allotted to the Preface compels a brevity too great for the merits of the work.

We have tried to perform our work accurately and well, but if errors should appear they are such as no human foresight could have prevented.

To the advertising patrons of this Book we return our best wishes, having done for each as we obligated ourselves to do. We feel satisfied that the benefit which will inevitably accrue to each will richly repay them many times its cost by an increase of trade. We trust that our efforts in endeavoring to please our patrons and the public will be kindly received and appreciated. To our obliging friends we tender our warmest thanks for the assistance, respect and kindness shown us.

Respectfully,

J. F. COFFMAN & CO.

KEOKUK, IOWA, July 1st, 1868.

KEOKUK CITY DIRECTORY.

SKETCH OF KEOKUK.

KEOKUK is situated on the Mississippi River, near its confluence with the Des Moines, two hundred and twelve miles north of St. Louis. It lies at the foot of the Lower Rapids, and is at present the head of navigation for the largest class of steamboats, and its position to the interior part of the State justly defines it the "Gate City of Iowa."

Keokuk was incorporated as a city December 13th, 1847. The first city officers were inaugurated January 10th, 1848. Mayor, W. A. Clark; Aldermen: First Ward, James Mackley and W. C. Read; Second Ward, William Holliday and H. Bassett; Third Ward, Jonn W. Ogden and J. M. Houston. The population at the present time is between twelve and thirteen thousand, although it did at one time possess a greater population than at the present. Owing to the fearful financial revulsion of 1857 her onward march of progress was checked. For several years past it has been gradually possessing the elements of a substantial prosperity, and its growth will be constant and rapid enough to satisfy the reasonable desires of those most interested in its welfare and prosperity. The city is in a healthy climate in north latitude $40^{\circ} 20'$ and longitude $14^{\circ} 20'$ west of Washington, on a high limestone bluff. As an additional evidence of the salubrity of its location, the bluffs in the immediate vicinity of the city were known among the Indians as the "medicine ground." It is surrounded on all sides by a rich and productive soil. The county is the third in the State as regards to population.

In view of the many advantages of Keokuk as a commercial centre, will readily be perceived by its favorable location upon the Mississippi, whose waves wash the shores of so many fertile States, and navigated most of the year by numerous steamboats.

And with its Railroads radiating in almost every direction, swiftly bearing their huge burdens—eastward and westward—in obedience to the behests of trade, its position is not as invincible as it seemed to be before the advent of the locomotive. Four Railroads centre here at present: Des Moines Valley, Toledo, Wabash and Western, Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw and the Keokuk and St. Paul lines of railway, which daily ignore the beaten track of traffic, defying and overcoming natural obstacles. it does, the elements of a substantial prosperity, and an advantageous location, with all its natural and artificial advantages, gives it unquestionable supremacy over that of any other point on the upper river.

Keokuk is fast becoming a manufacturing town. Her representatives in this department are men of experience and infuse a spirit of enterprise that is seldom seen in a city of no greater population, and will undoubtedly be greatly increased after the completion of the improvement of the Des Moines rapids, thus affording an inexhaustible water power, sufficient for all the various branches of manufacture. We are glad to see so much interest manifested in this direction, the results of which are beginning to be appreciated, and we have evidence in the fact that capital is flowing hither from other quarters and being invested in various branches of mechanical production, from the production of the great staple of iron and the working of it up into the multifarious forms which the protean hand of Art furnishes for the wants of consumers, to the innumerable minor articles, requiring practical ingenuity and diversified labor, have been established beyond question. The Titan steam with more than Briarean arms, is ever busy in its workshops with tireless toil accomplishing useful results, of which the aggregate is hardly guessed by even those who are most intimate with the various industrial activities, which furnishes employment to many skillful operators, who so greatly aid in strengthening the foundation and advancing the fortunes of the city.

To many it will be of great interest to know the number of persons engaged in the different branches of trade and professions, as represented in this city. For this purpose we have subjoined the following list:

7 Agents Insurance, 3 Agents Sewing Machines, 3 Agricultural Implement Dealers, 2 Auction and Commission, 2 Bag Manufacturers, 4 Bakers, 3 Banks and Bankers, 2 Bands, 7 Barbers, 4 Billiard Halls, 9 Blacksmiths, 2 Bleachers and Pressers, 15 Boarding Houses, 1 Boiler Maker, 2 Book Binders, 4 Booksellers and Stationers, 20 Boot and Shoe Makers and Retail Dealers, 1 Boot and Shoe, (wholesale,) 5 Boot and Shoe, (wholesale and retail,) 5 Brewers, 4 Brickyards, 1 Brushmaker, 1 Business College, 1 Car Wheel Manufacturer, 23 Carpenters and Builders, 2 Carpets and Oil Cloths, 9 Carriage and Wagonmakers, 2 China, Glass and Queensware, 7 Cigar and Tobacco, 6 Clothiers, 2 Coaldealers, 6 Commission Merchants, 5 Confectioners, 6 Coopers, 4 Dentists, 7 Distillers and Rectifiers, 10 Dress and Cloakmakers, 7 Druggists, 11 Dry Goods, 2 Dry Goods, (wholesale,) 4 Dyers and Scourers, 1 Elevator, 3 Flour Mills, 4 Flour and Seed Stores, 3 Foundries and Machine Shops, 2 Fruit Stores, 7 Furniture, 2 Gas and Steam Pipe Fitters, 3 Grain Dealers, 1 Glue Manufacturer, 48 Groceries and Provisions, 5 Grocers, (wholesale,) 5 Grocers, (wholesale and retail,) 2 Gunsmiths, 1 Hairworker and Braider, 5 Hardware and Cutlery, (wholesale and retail,) 5 Hats, Caps and Furs, 2 Hide and Leather Dealers, 1 Hoop Skirt Maker, 2 Horse Collar Manufacturers, 21 Hotels, 3 Ice Cream Saloons, 2 Ice Dealers, 48 Insurance Companies, 2 Iron and Steel Warehouses, 8 Jewellers, 24 Lawyers, 6 Livery, 8 Lumber Merchants, 2 Marble Works, 14 Meat Markets, 9 Merchant Tailors, 6 Milliners and Dealers in Millinery Goods, 3 Music and Musical Instruments, 2 News Depots, 4 Newspapers and Publications, 14 Notaries Public, 3 Nurserymen and

In turning from the gratifying picture of the commercial and industrial prosperity, we are proud to contemplate the educational, religious and moral aspect of the city. With a system of public schools, affording the benefit of free instruction to hundreds of youths who are growing up to take their places in their respective positions of society, for the accomodation of which there are three very large public school buildings, commodious and built of brick, upon the most approved plans, presided over by competent instructors, under the management of their several principals, in conjunction with their most worthy superintendent. Besides the respective ward schools and several select schools, there is a medical college of deserved repute.

The moral and religious culture of the city is well evidenced by the numerous and beautiful church edifices that rear their sacred spires high above the thronged and busy streets and the number of clustering houses around them. The various religious denominations are fully represented, viz: Baptist, Catholic, Congregational, Episcopal, Lutheran, Methodist Episcopal, Unitarian, Presbyterian, besides other denominations that have no church buildings of their own; also with humane and charitable institutions of enlarged beneficence.

One of the most creditable and useful institutions of the city is the Keokuk Library Association. For years it has diffused its benefits among all classes. Foremost in its management have ever been the most intelligent, energetic and public spirited citizens. Its officers have been from first to last the leading business of the city. The importance of its past benefits and its capabilities for future usefulness have been so sensibly felt that within the last three years most spirited and successful efforts have been made to establish it upon an assured basis of present and continued prosperity. For the purpose of providing it with a suitable and permanent home, a subscription was suggested, which was most nobly and magnificently responded to. The Library is a favorite resort for the citizens, and its crowded halls attest its popularity. Private generosity has contributed largely to its success, and the citizens generally by their patronage show the interest they feel in its prosperity.

The Young Men's Christian Association is also a commendable institution, although at present in an embryotic state—as its organization dates from March 1st, 1868. Its future career will undoubtedly be attended with good results.

In glancing at the progress of the city, we may well call attention to the fact that the permanent elements of its prosperity have been more largely developed in the past two years than at any former period.

Among the many contemplated improvements most worthy of mention, are the bridging of the Mississippi and the building of a market house, which will be of incalculable benefit to the city.

The city is built principally of brick. The business houses are large and well adapted to the different trades and will compare favorably with those of cities of even greater population. The private residences being particularly ornate and tasteful.

We notice the Architecture of the city is improving year by year, and at present, many elegant monuments of taste and liberality are already constructed.

The streets do not present that beautiful and animated appearance that they should, and this certainly does not speak well for the taste and forethought of her citizens in former years. If a sense of duty or pride had prompted them to act different, undoubtedly the streets would have been gorgeously bordered with grateful and graceful shade trees.

One of the best gas works in the country furnishes an abundant quantity of that now indispensable element of light, to most every part of the city. The city was first lighted by gas Nov. 1855.

The municipal regulations of the city for the preservation of good order, safety of person and property, also the prevention and punishment of crime, are wisely and vigorously administered; but we would think the population of the city justifies and demands a regular police force, which would make both property and person doubly safe and add at the same time perceptible greatness to its morality.

EARLY SETTLEMENT.—Keokuk properly owes its existence to Dr. Samuel C. Muir, a surgeon in the United States army, stationed at Fort Edwards, (now Warsaw, Ill.,) who built a log cabin here as early as 1820, the location of which would now be the north-west corner of Main and Levee.—He was a native of Scotland, and was educated at Edinburgh University, and graduated an M. D. Shortly after, he emigrated to this country, and proffered his services as a surgeon to the military department, and was accepted, and during his engagement on the frontier formed an attachment for an Indian female (Sag-sagaw,) by whom he had five children. Their names were Louisa, James, Mary, Sophia and Samuel. His family accompanied him on all occasions in the event of removal from one post to another, and from inconvenience of this kind he was prompted to make the improvements above mentioned at Puck-e-she-tuk (foot of rapids) now Keokuk so as to have a permanent home. During his engagements with the army, and while stationed at Ft. Johnson or Edwards, orders were issued by the war department that all officers and attaches of the United States army should at once abandon and refuse to harbor any and all Indian females resorting around the military posts. Upon this announcement being made known to him, he at once tendered his resignation, and before it was accepted, many flattering inducements were offered him by his associates to abandon his wife (squaw,) and remain with them. His only reply on such occasions was by holding up his first born pappoose (babe,) and exclaiming, "May God forbid that a son of Caledonia should ever desert his child or disown his clan!" After his resignation, circumstances compelled him to lease his claims to Otis Reynolds and John Culver, of St. Louis, for the term of ten years, and during this interval he practiced medicine in Northern Missouri and Galena, Ill. At the expiration of the lease, in 1830, he returned, and received possession of his long desired home. Here he remained until the time of his death. He died of cholera, in 1832, being the first death. Since then his wife and all of his children have followed him, excepting his first born, Louisa, who still remains as a link in a chain that connects the pioneers of yore with the generation of to-day. During the interval of 1822 to 1832, many accessions to the population of Puck-e-she-tuk had been made, among whom we may mention Moses Stillwell, the agent and representative of Reynolds and Culver, who was the first to settle here with his family, consisting of wife, child and two brothers-in-law, Amos and Valencourt VanAusdal. The American fur company had established a trading post here, and constructed a respectable row of hewed log buildings for their head-quarters, of later years called "Rat Row." The names of the employees were Russell Farnham, manager; Joshua Palean, Mark Aldridge and Edward Bishnell, as clerks; Francis Labasure, and Baptiste, a Meenominee Indian, principal interpreters. John Connolly, John Forsyth, James Thorn and John Tolman were engaged by the company as itinerant peddlers, collecting furs, &c. These men all having Indian women for wives, were very popular among the various bands of Indians. Also, Andrew Santamount, Meddeau, Bruseau, and Paul Bessette, of French origin, were among the first settlers here, being indirectly connected with the fur company in various capacities. As the population increased, so did competition in trade, and owing to this cause the fur company's agents determined to remove to more advantageous grounds. Isaac R. Campbell, of Ah-wi-pe-tuk (commencement of falls or cascade,) now Nashville, in 1831, in connection with Samuel C. Muir, became their successors, owners and occupants of their buildings, continuing their trade of supplying Indians, half-breeds and whites with all the necessities of life. In connection with merchandise, Campbell furnished entertainment for travelers, and towed and lightened around the rapids for steamers. His building known as "Rat Row" had its many uses; as in all frontier settlements, it was hotel, church, court house, grocery and saloon, at that time the latter being the most popular of them all. About this time, John Gaines, William Price, Alexander Hood, William McBride, Thomas W. Taylor, and a few others came in. Isaac R. Campbell, during the first four years of his residence here, had cleared and fenced something over twenty acres on the top and side of the hill. This he used for raising corn and potatoes. The present landmarks embracing that primitive potato patch are from the Levee up Blondeau to Tenth, down Tenth to Timea, thence along Timea to Second, thence along Second to Main, thence down Main and up Levee to place of beginning. Up to the year 1835, the settlement at the foot of the rapids had been without a distinctive name, its various aliases being Puck-e-she-tuk Point, Foot of Rapids, &c.

It was finally proposed by a number of steamboatmen while detained here in lightening over the Rapids that it should commemorate the name of the peace chief of the Sac tribe of Indians, owing to his fidelity and friendship for the white people. From this time the name of Keokuk was adopted. In the spring of 1837, the village was platted by Dr. Isaac Galland, who was then agent of the New York land company, and under his supervision a town in embryo was formally inaugurated and recorded as Keokuk. The ensuing June a public sale of town lots was held and attended by a very large crowd. One boat was chartered in St. Louis and numbers came up on other boats. Only two or three lots were sold, one on the south-west corner of Main and Levee and one or two contiguous. The corner lot sold for $1,500. In 1840, the main portion of Keokuk was a dense forest, and where Main street now is was thick timber and under brush, and about a dozen cabins comprised all the improvements. In the spring of 1847, a census of the place gave a population of 620.

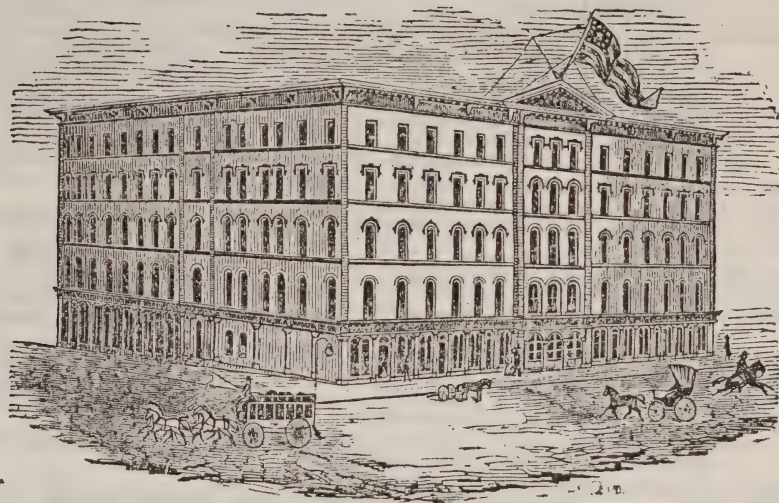

The commerce, from 1821 to 1832 did not increase in tonage to any extent. Isaac R. Campbell made several trips during this time on keel Boats from St. Louis to Galena, Illinois. A number of these boats were owned by Capt. White and navigated by him as freighters on the upper Mississippi. Capt. James White made his first voyage up the Mississippi on the steamboat Mandan, being forty days en route from New Orleans to the foot of the Rapids, which she attempted to ascend, but could not get up higher than Filly Rock on account of heavy draught and the want of a correct knowledge of the channel by the pilot. The Indians at several localities above St. Louis, were badly frightened, running in every direction, when the boat first hove in sight, as they never had witnessed the like before. Many of them thought the aquatic monster was the Mon-i-tou-ke-suth (evil spirit or devil) coming to call on them for a final reckoning. The next steamer that succeeded in ascending the Rapids was the Pike, which by many, has been considered the first steamboat that traversed the upper Mississippi, which is correct so far as being the first boat to go above the Des Moines rapids. The Red Rover, Chieftain, Mechanic, Java, Shamrock and Mexico were the next that made their appearance, and after this in succession came as regular traders the Warrior, Winnebago, Wisconsin, Olive Branch, William Wallace, and Heroine, with hundreds of others since. The steamer Mexico was the first boat wrecked on the lower rapids and the remains of this boat are still visible, near the shore below Nashville. The first and most popular commanders on the upper Mississippi were Captains Throckmorton, Shellcross, Clark, Crosley, Atchison, Lafferty, Littleton, Cameron, May, and Reynolds.

In the early pioneer days there was not the reserve or restraint in society that there is at the present day. When their red friends presented them with a painted stick, they asked for no explanation but followed them to their wigwams and fared sumptuously on dog meat. Their amusements in winter were the commingling of the whites and half breeds in the mazy dance—their favorite dancing tune being original—was called "Guilmah or stump-tail dog." Those who did not participate in the dance, could be found in an adjoining room engaged at cards—the favorite game was "bragg" played with three cards, and any one who was so stupid as not to understand or appreciate its beauties was considered ineligible to the best society. Horse racing was another great source of amusement. In this sport, the Indians were ever ready to participate, and at times lost on the result every article they possessed on earth. After this ceased to be entertaining, they called on their pugilistic friends, Hood, McBride and Price, to further enliven the scene by a friendly exhibition of their prowess by knocking down and dragging out a few of the uninterested spectators. They had no prize belt to award the victor, as the science and courtesies of the ring had not then arrived to the perfection they have since. Before this era, civil law was unknown, and their only salutary mode of punishment for crime was by prohibiting the criminal from the use of intoxicating liquors, this being the greatest punishment that they could inflict. As they had no churches or church members, when the missionary visited them, Isaac R. Campbell welcomed him in behalf of the citizens and tendered him the use of a part of his house for church services, and in the capacity of warden, he would announce in his bar room, to the loafers who were to compose the audience, the hour of service. The first school was taught by Jesse Crayton, in 1833. As his pupils were few, he was enabled to devote a large portion of his time to the mending of boots and shoes, his legitimate occupation; also, in connection with the early settlement, we may mention the names of Peter Avery, William Phelps, James Jordon and Brothers, McMullen, Bedelle, Nathan Smith and William Harrison, most of whom were Indian traders, and a portion, if not all, have since died, but will ever be remembered, more especially, John Gaines, whose name will ever be held in grateful remembrance, as he possessed many sterling qualities, being honest and upright in all his dealings, and owing to his integrity, was appointed the first justice or notary of (Lee county.) He was born Dec. 23d, 1803, Bloomfield street, New York, and died April 21st, 1839. All that remains to perpetuate his name is a rough lime stone monument, standing on the south-east corner of Blondeau and Second streets. This is the only remaining tomb indicating a hallowed spot of ground, once held sacred by every pioneer, which stands like a sentinel upon the watch-tower of time, warning the new-comers that they are only lingering in the foot-prints of the pioneers, and like tabernacles of earth, must soon crumble and pass away.

LIBRARIES AND READING ROOMS.

KEOKUK LIBRARY ASSOCIATION,

Library and reading rooms No. 80 Main street. Open from 2 to 9 p. m. Organized November 28th, 1863; incorporated December 10th, 1863.

OFFICERS AND COMMITTEES FOR 1868—

R. F. Bower, Pres't; John H. Craig, V. Pres't; J. H. Westcott, Rec. Sec'y; Ed. F. Brownell, Treas.; Wm. W. Jamieson, Cor. Sec'y; Miss M. A. Parsons, Librarian. Directors—W. W. Belknap, Geo. W. McCrary, Wm. W. Jamieson, Patrick Gibbons, Sam'l E. Carey, Guy Wells. Committees—Library, W. W. Belknap, chairman; J. H. Westcott, Patrick Gibbons, Howard Tucker and Erie J. Leech. Lecture, Wm. W. Jamieson, chairman; Geo. W. McCrary, John H. Craig, Wm. A. Brownell and Samuel E. Carey. Arts, Relics, Minerals, &c., Geo. W. McCrary, chairman; Guy Wells, W. W. Belknap, Dr. Geo. M. Kellogg and R. P. Lowe. Auditing, Samuel E. Carey and Howard Tucker.

The officers and directors are elected annually by ballot at the annual meeting of stockholders held on the first Monday in May. The Corresponding Secretary, Librarian and Committees are appointed by the Board of Directors.

The capital stock of the Association is $10,000, divided into shares of $10 each. The payment of $10 constitutes a stockholder. On this is assessed an annual tax for the support of the library of $3 for each fiscal year, commencing the 1st of May. The payment entitles them to the use of the library and one vote at the annual meeting of the stockholders. The payment of $50 constitutes a Life Membership. This gives the privileges of the library and one vote, and they are absolved from the payment of the annual tax. The payment of $4.00 per annum or $1.25 for three months, constitutes a subscriber. They have the use of the library but no vote.

The revenue from the above sources, together with fines, proceeds of lectures under the auspices of the Association, and contributions, are the means relied on to support the Association.

The library was first opened on the 1st of June, 1864. It then contained 2,479 volumes of books, besides pamphlets, magazines, &c., and numbered 181 stockholders. The cost of fitting up the room was $504.76, and the total value of the property of the Association at that time was estimated at $5,000. The success of the enterprise surpassed the most sanguine expectations of its warmest friends, and so rapid was the increase of the library and its readers that it became apparent that it was necessary to secure more commodious quarters. For that purpose, in May, 1865, a committee was appointed to solicit donations and further subscriptions to the stock. So successful were their efforts, that they raised $2,311.55, besides valuable donations of books, pamphlets, &c. The result was the fitting up of the present hall, a room 79 feet long and 25 feet wide, at a cost of $1,379.03, and was occupied on the 25th of September, 1865. The present number of bound volumes is 5,469, besides a large number of pamphlets, magazines, &c., unbound. Of these, 3,646 volumes were bought, at a cost of $4,013.72, and 1,823 volumes were donated by the friends of the Association. In addition to this there is a large number of busts, statuettes, oil paintings, engravings, maps and charts, besides a large and valuable collection of minerals, relics, coins and curiosities. The total valuation of the same at present is estimated at $11,000.

There are regularly received and filed 10 magazines and reviews, and 34 daily and weekly newspapers and periodicals. The present number of life members is 14; 293 stockholders, and 97 subscribers; had 300 readers during the past year, who drew out 6,000 volumes of books; and and our total cash receipts were $947.32.

The first part of the report deals with the general situation in the country. It is noted that the economy is in a state of depression, and that the government is facing a serious financial crisis. The report also mentions the political situation, which is described as unstable. The second part of the report discusses the social conditions, which are also described as poor. The report concludes by stating that the government should take steps to improve the situation.

FORT MADISON CITY DIRECTORY.

SKETCH OF FORT MADISON.

FORT MADISON, the county seat of Lee county, is situated on the western bank of the Mississippi river, ten miles above the mouth of the Skunk river, twelve miles above the head of the "Lower Rapids," and two hundred and fifty miles above St. Louis, and is beautifully located on a plateau of ground extending back nearly a mile in width to a semi-circular range of bluffs. The landscape presented to the view from the summit of these bluffs, is surpassingly lovely, perhaps unequaled; while in front, to the North and South, the "Father of Waters" stretches away for miles, dotted here and there with many small islands studding its lake-like expanse. These bluffs and hill-sides were originally covered with a heavy growth of timber, extending down upon the second bottom, which now comprises the most beautiful portion of the city, and were, originally, considered comparatively worthless for ordinary agricultural purposes, which have since been proven, by the German citizens, to be exceedingly valuable for the culture of the vine; and for miles, following the course of the river, the appropriate name for these promontories and broken hill-sides, which are perfectly vine-clad, might be known as the "vine-land." The culture of the vine has become a speciality, and is already an important source of revenue — there being over one hundred acres of land under grape culture in and adjacent to the city — the soil and climate being particularly favorable and well adapted to the culture of the grape.

After passing the semi-circular range of bluffs which skirts it on the North and East, we find the finest quality of table-lands, densely populated, and under the highest state of cultivation, dotted with fields, farm houses, and groves. Few more enchanting scenes can be found — it will repay the tourist or traveler the loss of an hour or two to view the picturesque of the surrounding scenery, of which there is no superior in the Mississippi Valley. The city, for the most part, is built of brick, and, with its pleasant dwellings embosomed in forest and ornamental trees, are remarkable for their architectural beauty, and the artistic taste displayed in the arrangement of the grounds surrounding them. In former years much labor was expended in planting forest trees along the principal streets; these have been carefully preserved, and are now so large and dense that in the summer season they completely shade the side-walks, giving to the streets the appearance of beautiful avenues and gay promenades. Also, the two Parks or Squares are well planted with trees, one of them being exceedingly lovely, are also very attractive features of the city.

The business houses, churches, and public buildings, are usually commodious, substantial, of permanent character, and well-appearing, being of modern style of architecture, and much superior to buildings of like class seen in cities of even greater population: there being seven church edifices in the city, viz., Baptist [a very fine building, costing $13,000], Presbyterian, Methodist, Lutheran, Christian, Episcopal, and Catholic, the latter having in course of construction a Cathedral, which will cost, when completed, $75,000, and will be one of the largest and most ecclesiastical structures in the State. However, the first Church built was that of the Methodist, in 1811, which is their present building subsequent to its alterations and modifications. The following we will mention as among the public buildings: Court House, Jail, Public School House, State Penitentiary, and several spacious Public Halls.

The Iowa State Penitentiary, which adjoins the city on the East, being very appropriately located, is a large and well-built structure of limestone, in front of which is the Warden's house, a very fine and attractive building—Martin Heisey, as Warden. The yard is about 350 feet square; in this are large workshops, in which are employed the overseers and nearly 200 convicts as laborers, besides the necessary engines and machinery. The prison was built several years ago, and has grown from small proportions and capacity to be quite a considerable establishment. The present number of cells in the cell-room, is 162, being in three tiers or stories, fifty-four cells to the story. Each cell is seven feet long by three and a-half feet wide, and about seven feet from floor to ceiling. The cell-room, 130x40, is heated by means of four hot-air furnaces. The confinement of more than one person in such a cell, would not be humane. The present number of convicts is 182—the capacity of the institution being fully employed, and the necessity for more cells is apparent. As the State increases in population and greatness, crime also, unhappily, increases; and though it does not increase so rapidly, yet it is certain that, with a population of a million souls, Iowa must have more extensive preparations for the keeping of the criminals than was necessary before its present greatness had been achieved. The following statistics, showing the number of convicts in the Penitentiary for several years past, will, no doubt, be interesting:

1860,.....	123	1865,.....	87
1861,.....	118	1866,.....	117
1862,.....	81	1867,.....	160
1863,.....	70	1868, (thus far).....	182

The decreased number during the years of the late war of the rebellion is a remarkable fact. It demonstrates the correctness of the theory, that the extraordinary patriotic excitement of the times extended to the lowest stratum of society, and at least for the time being, elevated the depraved, and induced them to engage in honest pursuits. The nation, however, having returned to peace, and the State having acquired a new impetus of general growth and prosperity, one of the results must be an increase of crime.

We are informed by the Warden that it is the intention, on the part of the State, to add to the present building an addition of 121 feet long by 45 feet wide, and two stories high, containing 144 cells. This will, undoubtedly, meet the future demands of the institution, and add greatly to its health and humanity. Also the purchase of the land, by the State, lying between the prison and the river, is an apparent necessity. The manner in which the institution is conducted, certainly reflects great credit upon the Warden.

The educational interests of the city have been carefully fostered and generously encouraged. The first school was established in 1836. And we take pleasure in speaking more particularly of the FORT MADISON ACADEMY, (see lithograph), the Academy being a large three-story brick building, erected at a cost of $20,000, and occupies a conspicuous view of the river on Front street, containing forty rooms, affording accommodation for the residence of the principal and one hundred and fifty students. The institution owes its existence to the enterprise and public spirit of the citizens of Fort Madison and vicinity. It is owned by an incorporated joint stock company, and is controlled by a Board of Trustees, elected annually by the stockholders, each share being entitled to a vote, although no dividends are declared, as the entire proceeds of tuition fees are appropriated to meet its current expenses. The school has been in operation for three years, with an average attendance of eighty students, or one hundred and fifty during the year, under the care of a principal and a sufficient corps of assistants. The course of study is similar to that of other High Schools and Academies, representing the Literary, Mathematical, Classical, Scientific and Ornamental, including the different languages, English, French and German. The Musical department has of late been thoroughly organized. In fact, the entire course of instruction and training is equal to that pursued in the most approved seminaries of our country. We learn that a commencement has been made for an Academic Library, and a few instruments have been secured for philosophical and scientific illustrations. The Trustees purpose on providing a complete philosophical and chemical apparatus and also a cabinet of minerals, at the earliest practical period. The means are only wanting, and then it requires time and labor to secure them; especially where there are no permanent endowments and no sources of revenue except tuition fees, which are appropriated to defray the current expenses, the only appeal is to the benevolent. It is believed that the appeal will not be in vain; and if these wants are met by a generous public, and with the rigid economy and liberal plans which have ever characterized the institution, the Fort Madison Academy will be one of the best in the state.

The Catholics also have a large and well conducted Parochial School, taught in a new, substantial and commodious building, erected at a cost of $10,000, opposite the new Cathedral.

Fort Madison derived its name from an old military post established here in 1808, constructed by Zachary Taylor, and named in honor of James Madison, President of the United States. The site of the Fort was in the upper part of the city, about where the large flouring mill of McConn and Parmer is now situated. In the year 1813, the Indians were very hostile, and in order for the troops to evacuate the Fort without being interrupted by the Indians, they made a subterranean cavern or tunnel through which they were enabled to abandon the Fort and make their escape. Consequently the Fort was burned by the Indians. For many years after it was burned, a chimney remained standing twenty-five feet high. This caused the trappers and early navigators of the river to call the site "Lone Chimney;" the Indian name for which was "Po-to-won-ock," signifying the place of the fire.

There existed as late as 1834, many traces of the old Fort, fully defined by rows of burnt pickets and some of the stockade, and marks of the subterranean cavern; also the old garrison well, which, at that time, supplied the inhabitants with water, and is still being used at the present day.

Fort Madison was first settled in 1832, it being the first settlement made in the township. The following we record as those among the first: Peter Williams, J. Horton, August Horton, Richard Chaney, John H. and Nathaniel Knapp and Aaron White. The first settlement was made by Peter Williams, a botanical mullen leaf doctor, in the fall of 1832. He made a claim on the present town site, and erected a log cabin (which was the first,) on the bank of the river opposite the present location of Schlapp's Brewery, some four or five hundred yards below the Fort, which was known in after years as "Lower Town." Agreeable to the treaty with the Indians, in the fall of 1832, no white man was to be allowed to settle on the so-called Black Hawk purchase before the 4th of July the following year; but our sturdy pioneer paid no regard to treaty stipulations, but remained and availed himself of the assumed right to settle on the public domains. But alas! poor Peter was compelled to give up his newly made home, as a United States officer and a detachment of twelve men from Fort Armstrong, (Rock Island,) was detailed for the purpose of defending the treaty stipulations. Accordingly, on their arrival at the site of the old Fort, they found Peter Williams as a transgressor of this treaty, and ordered him to go across the river; but Peter could not think of being driven off in such a manner, and defied the officer and his men, thereby the soldiers took him as a prisoner and tied him to a tree close by, so that he might have the pleasure of seeing his past labors destroyed, as his cabin was demolished by them and the logs rolled in the river, and fired his cord wood, which had been for many days the faithful appliance of his pioneer axe, the echo of which oft reverberated through the valley in unison with the song of the birds, which caused Peter's heart to gladden with joy. Little did he then think that in a few days his ALL would be destroyed. As law and order predominates over self-will, he was consequently taken as a prisoner to Commerce, (now Nauvoo, Ill.,) but was afterwards released through the intercession of his friends and family, under a solemn pledge not to cross to the west bank of the river again until the Indian title should become extinct to these lands. In the latter part of 1833, Peter again renewed his claim. About that time, Richard Chaney squatted on the flat above the branch, and near the present site of the State Penitentiary, upon a field which had been once cleared by United States soldiers in 1812; but at this time it was thickly grown with cotton-wood trees, which he deadened and re-cleared, and raised a crop of corn, it being the first grain raised in the vicinity. In a short time, they began to disagree about their boundary lines, and in consequence war was declared and raged ferociously for months, until Peter obtained foreign aid from Fort Des Moines, (now Montrose.) On the arrival of his auxillaries, they fired a round of blank cartridges into old Dick's entrenchments, which made him beg for quarters and promise ever after to hold his peace. Also, about the same time, John H. and Nathaniel Knapp, Aaron White and August Horton came in. John H. Knapp laid out the original town platt, which extended from Oriental, on the east side, to a point about half way between Cedar and Pine streets, as the western boundary, near where the McFarland House now stands. This was its limits in 1834, and contained at that time only four cabins. John H. Knapp's residence stood on the ruins of the old Fort; that of Nathaniel Knapp on the bank of the river, where the upper levee is, just above the foot of Elm street; and those of Peter Williams and Richard Chaney as before described. Aaron White also lived a mile above town on the bluff. August Horton lived below town, near the present road to West Point.

In the years 1835 and '36, there was quite an influx of population. Town lots brought high prices, and excitement and speculation prevailed. Among those that came in at that time, we may mention Peter Miller, Jacob Cutler, John Kennedy, James Small, John Atlee, John Walsh, Jos. Webster and Philip Viele, (who was the first lawyer in the county.)

John and Nathaniel Knapp erected two large frame houses as hotels, known respectively as the Washington and Madison Houses, but have since been torn down. These were the first improvements made of any note. John Walsh opened the first store on the bank of the river, which would now be between Pine and Market streets. He afterwards sold out to Jacob Cutler. As it is necessary for a portion of the different trades and professions to be represented in all early settlements for the advancement of civilization and progress in the arts and mechanical industry, Peter Miller erected a shop on Front street, between Cedar and Pine, and carried on the blacksmithing; but at the present time we find him in a more lucrative business—that of a merchant.

Some of these old settlers are still living. Peter Williams was the first to be numbered among the dead, and many others have long since paid the debt of nature. Among the living are Peter Miller, Philip Viele, Daniel McConn, Herman Dingman, and others.

A short time after, this little municipality began to assume colossal proportions, and accordingly was laid off and incorporated as a town March 3d, 1837, under an act of Congress of July 2d, 1836—William W. Coriell and George Cabbage as commissioners.

As we have noticed the germ of the professional and mechanical interests, we must not forget to chronicle the first marriage, which was that of Mr. E. Gilbert, who clerked at the time for Judge Cutler, and was married to a daughter of Mr. Knapp, in 1838.

Owing to the course of the river at this point, the city is several miles nearer the interior of the State than any other city on the river. This fact explains the reason of the large amount of trade maintained here. The country on both sides of the river, tributary to it, is compactly settled and very fertile. Several towns and villages make this their shipping point, viz: Franklin, Dover, West Point, Pilot Grove and Denmark. By means of the steam ferry boat that plies regularly between here and Appanoose on the Illinois side, considerable trade is obtained from Hancock County, Illinois—a trade which might be greatly increased by the establishment of another Ferry, running directly to the Illinois shore at Nioata. It is stated by prominent citizens that the removal of the Illinois terminus of the ferry from Nioata to Appanoose, a few years ago, has diminished that trade at least one-half, all of which might be more than regained.

The present railroad facilities are nothing extraordinary. The urgent necessity for the completion of the present projected railway system is severely felt, and more especially during the winter season, whilst in other seasons the Mississippi river affords excellent transportation facilities. Those under contemplation are from Burlington, via Fort Madison, to Farmington, to connect with the State Line road. Upon the completion of this portion of the road between here and Burlington, which is only eighteen miles by the surveyed route, and thereby giving at all seasons direct railroad connection with Chicago and the East. The only railroad now in operation is the Keokuk and St. Paul Railway, which at present only runs between here and Keokuk. By this railroad, connection is made eastward, at Keokuk, with the Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railway; and also Toledo, Wabash and Western Railway; westward by the Des Moines Valley Railroad.

To give the reader an idea of the commercial importance of the city and of the number in the different trades and professions as represented, we subjoin the following classified list. For the representatives of each, we respectfully refer you to our Business Directory, which immediately follows the Directory of Fort Madison. By referring to the same, we find the following: 5 Agents Insurance, 3 Agricultural Implement dealers, 2 Banks and Bankers, 2 Bakeries, 3 Barbers, 9 Blacksmith shops, 12 Boot and Shoe makers and dealers, 2 Breweries, 7 Carpenters and Builders, 2 Carriage Manufactories, 3 China, Glass and Queensware dealers, 2 Cigar and Tobacco Manufacturers, 3 Clothiers, 1 Commission Merchant, 1 Confectioner, 10 Cooper Shops, 3 Distilleries, 2 Dentists, 4 Druggists, 2 Dress and Cloak makers, 17 Dry Good Stores, 4 Furniture dealers, 2 Flouring Mills, 15 Grocers and Provision dealers, 2 Grain Warehouses, 1 Gunsmith, 1 Hardware Store, 6 Hotels, 2 Jewelers, 5 Lumber Yards, 2 Livery Stables, 11 Lawyers, 1 Marble Works, 5 Meat Markets, 6 Merchant Tailors, 2 Musical Instrument dealers, 2 Milliners, 2 Packers Pork, 2 Paint Shops, 2 Photographers, 6 Physicians, 3 Planing Mills, 2 Plow Manufacturers, 1 Rope maker, 3 Saddle and Harness Shops, 9 Saloons, 4 Sash, Door and Blind Factories, 3 Saw Mills, 3 Shingle Mills, 4 Stove and Tinware dealers, 1 Tannery, 12 Vineyards, 2 Vinegar Manufacturers, 6 Wagon makers, 2 Watch, Clock and Jewelry dealers, 4 Wine and Liquor dealers, 1 Woolen Mill.

The future development of Fort Madison is undoubtedly vested in its manufacturing facilities. The location is good, and the area of country surrounding it affords consumers for every article of manufacture, and the cost of production is very small in comparison to that of some other cities and localities. As the wealth and progress of all cities depend in a great measure upon their manufacturers, we are pleased to find so many of the various kinds located here. It certainly shows a spirit of enterprise, and we learn that those that have been in operation have been very successful and largely remunerative, and it is believed that a paper mill and oil mill, and another woolen mill, also an iron foundry, would prove to be safe and profitable investments. We have been enabled to gather some items of the different manufacturing establishments here, but our space precludes us from noticing them at length.

MANUFACTURERS.

MORRISON'S STEEL PLOW WORKS.—They were built in 1864, but the size being insufficient for its demands, the proprietors, Messrs. Morrison & Sons, have just erected a large two-story building in front of the previous one, giving them a building 115 feet long by 50 feet wide, besides their two warerooms, one 60x20, three stories high, and the other 30x70. It would be useless for us to speak of the qualities or excellency of the Plows that are manufactured by this establishment, as the many premiums that have heretofore been awarded them by the different fairs throughout the country is sufficient as to their superiority. The advantages which they claim for their Plows is, that of their lightness of draft and the peculiar process of tempering of the steel, which is only known to themselves. With their increased facilities, they will be able to turn out annually five thousand Plows. These bringing them in on an average twenty dollars, would make one hundred thousand dollars in the course of the year. This speaks well for their enterprise.

AMERICAN MILLS.—Built 1852, four stories high, brick, 60 by 60, three run of stone, capacity two hundred barrels per day, 84-horse power engine; also, a warehouse 30 by 76, two-stories high, brick.

FORT MADISON MILLS.—Peters & Bernhard, proprietors, built in 1867, three stories high, 56 by 45, three run of stone, capacity one hundred barrels per day, cost $15,000.

The first flour mill was built in 1844, by Walter Hawxhurst, who run it four or five years, and sold it to Thomas S. Espy, and then was known as the Empire Mills, having since been burned down and rebuilt in 1863 by Card & Lawrence as a distillery. The building is of brick, very large and well adapted for this purpose, being one hundred feet long and forty feet wide, of a capacity of 1,000 bushels per day.

FORT MADISON BREWERY.—George Schlapp, proprietor. This is a very large Brewery, being 145x42, two stories high and cellar. The malt house is 38x68, capacity of which is 3,000 bushels, and capable of brewing twenty-five barrels per day. Has also a Beer Cave situated on the Bluff, of a capacity of 1,000 barrels. The total number of barrels brewed last year was 5,000.

FORT MADISON WOOLEN FACTORY.—Built 1864, four stories high, frame, 64x40; capacity 100 yards per day; one complete set of machinery, forty horse power engine; employing fifteen hands in the busiest season, in the manufacture of cloths, cassimeres, jeans, flannels and custom work.

FORT MADISON TANNERY.—A. W. Douglas, proprietor; been established twelve years; use G. W. Hatch's process of tanning; consume 500 hides per year in the manufacture of harness, upper, kipp and calf.

ATLEE'S PLANING AND SAW MILL.—Is a very large establishment, employing about sixty men. The saw mill is 100 by 30; the planing and shingle mill 56 by 75, two stories high. The machinery is driven by two engines of forty and sixty horse power; the engine room is 30 by 40, also running four boilers, twenty feet long and forty inches thick. The establishment manufactured last year nearly four million shingles, and seven million feet of lumber.

BONNELL & STEWART'S SAW AND PLANING MILL.—The main building is 22 by 40, and two-stories high. Their machinery is driven by a forty-horse power engine, employing twenty-five men.

FORT MADISON PLANING MILL.—Henry Inkman, proprietor. This mill was built in 1866, two-stories high, 50 by 50, and is supplied with a double set of machinery, employing ten men in the manufacture of sash doors and blinds; has also in connection a warehouse 20 by 34 for storage.

MILLER'S SAW, SHINGLE AND LATH MILLS.—Located on the bank of the river, opposite the Penitentiary, formerly known as the Fort Madison Mills and Distillery. Mr. N. B. Miller, the proprietor, having discontinued the flouring mill, has supplied it with machinery for a saw, lath and shingle mill, and will also continue in connection the distillery as heretofore. The building is two-stories high, seventy-five feet square, and is well adapted for the purpose designed.

F. HOLZBERGER'S Carriage, Wagon and Plow manufactory, is a large two story brick building 33x40; wagon shop in connection 22x32. Manufactured last year fifty wagons, six carriages, and one hundred plows, employing ten men.

JOHN HOERNER, Wagon manufacturer; pays special attention to the manufacture of wagons; has a building 75x100, employing some ten men.

Also, the large manufacturing establishment of HALE, DAVIS & Co., who employ the convict labor of the State Penitentiary, numbering 181, in the manufacture of agricultural implements, wooden ware, chairs, &c., in consideration of which they pay the State 40½ cents for each day's labor of 10 hours each performed, their contract extending 10 years from January 1st, 1865. They seem to have quite a "soft thing," and their only enterprise consists in sinking the dollars obtained by this labor.

In this connection, we cannot refrain from tendering our sincere thanks to the good people of Fort Madison generally, for the kind treatment received at their hands, and their most liberal encouragement and assistance in the prosecution of our labors, and at the same time showing their enterprise, energy and liberality, by advertising their different trades and professions.

In conclusion, we most heartily tender our thanks to the Fort Madison Plain Dealer, which is now in its sixteenth volume, for the manner in which it has seconded our efforts, and more especially for the personal favors of its able editor and proprietor, Col. J. G. WILLSON.

LEE COUNTY GAZETTEER,

ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY BY TOWNSHIPS,

GIVING AN ACCOUNT OF THEIR LOCATION, SOIL, PRODUCTIONS, TIMBER AND WATER-COURSES, ETC., ETC.

LEE COUNTY is situated in the extreme south east corner of the State, and occupies that portion of territory lying immediately between the Mississippi and Des Moines rivers, and is bounded on the east by the Mississippi, on the north by the Skunk river and Henry county, on the west by Van Buren county, and on the south by the Des Moines river.

It has an area of about five hundred square miles of surface, or 320,609 acres, which is nearly equally divided into prairie and timber, and is well watered; having, in addition to the great water courses which nearly bound it on three sides, the following streams: two creeks known as Sugar Creeks, (Se-sa-paw-qua-sepo, the Indian name), Devil Creek: also Painter Creek, and some smaller streams. The principal of these are the two Sugar Creeks, one emptying into the Mississippi and the other into the Des Moines which traverse nearly the whole extent of the county, from northwest to southeast, these streams furnish a large amount of water power. At an early day the water courses were much larger than at the present time; Skunk river was considered navigable although it was dammed at Augusta. There was a grist and saw mill established there as early as 1835. The Indian name for this stream was Chi-ca-que which, in their language, is anything of a strong or obnoxious smell, such as onions, skunks &c., from the fact that its head waters abounding in large quantities of wild onions, hence the name; also Devil Creek has been known to be impassable for weeks at a time from high water; there was a saw mill on that stream, a short distance above where the bridge now crosses it, on the road from Montrose to Fort Madison; the Indian name for this stream was Mon-i-tou-ke-suth (evil spirit or devil).

The Territory in 1834, prior to its organization into counties, was attached to Michigan for Judicial purposes, and contained but two counties viz. Des Moines and Dubuque, the boundary line being the Iowa river and Burlington (then known as Flint Hills) which was the county town of Des Moines county. In 1835 or 6 the State was organized into counties and the Government survey of this county was made in the spring of 1836, by Captain Parks, of Michigan, who run all the township lines, and in the following year it was subdivided into sections. The half-breed tract had been surveyed a few years previous.

In 1836, being transferred from Michigan, our first Territorial Legislature was held at Dodgeville, Wisconsin. John Box was the representative from Lee county. In the fall of 1836, a public meeting was held by the early settlers, at the forks of the road six miles west of Keokuk, on what was then known as John Gaine's claim; the object of this meeting was for mutual consultation regarding the organization of Iowa Territory and to know to what rights this locality might be entitled, as heretofore it had been thought by many that this reservation of lands for the half-breeds of the Sac and Fox Indians, could not be included or embraced in any other organization. They seriously thought of setting out on their own hook, by forming an independent government of their own, but after James Brierly and Henry J. Campbell had in succession mounted upon the head of a whiskey barrel and unburdened themselves of a vast amount of eloquence, they became convinced that this reservation did owe allegiance to the United States government and must abide by its declarations; during this convention the name of "Lee," "Sprigg," or "Rapids" was suggested as appropriate names for the county, but owing to the government survey of the Des Moines and Skunk rivers rapids by Robert E. Lee (late Confederate General), it has been generally conceded that the county was named after him, but we are informed by D. W. Kilbourne, who was cognizant of the fact, that the county was named after William E. Lee, of the firm of Marsh, Lee & Delevan of New York, who had their agents here in purchasing the titles of the half-breed-tract of the Fox and Sac Indians. Mr. Lee was often here in person and with his immediate connection with its early interests, the county was named in honor of him.

The first settlement made by a white man in the county was in 1820, six miles above Keokuk at Lemoliese (now Sandusky) by a French trader of that name being engaged in traffic with the natives; his nearest neighbor was that of Blondeau a chief of the Fox Indians who lived one mile above. A short time after a settlement was made at Puck-e-she-tuck (foot of rapids) now Keokuk, by Dr. Samuel C. Muir, a surgeon of the U. S. army. A few years after, the next settlement was made at Ah-wi-pe-tuk (commencement of falls or cascade) now Nashville, in 1829, by Dr. Isaac Galland, and the following year Isaac R. Campbell located here; he, however, first visited the county in June 1821, making the first trip made by team through the southern portion of Iowa, it then being a wilderness and inhabited by the Sac and Fox tribes of Indians. In 1832, Captain James White made a claim at the present site of Montrose; in the fall of 1834, a regiment of the U. S. dragoons was stationed here, which was commanded by Col. Stephen W. Kearney, the officers of which will ever be remembered by the surviving pioneers of the half-breed-tract, for it was through their vigilance that civilization here received its first impetus. Their bayonets taught them to respect the rights of others and from martial law they learned the necessity of a civil code. The next settlement was made at Po-to-won-ock (place of the fire) now Fort Madison, by Peter Williams in the fall of 1832.

The first claims made off of the Mississippi river, was at a point which is now known as South Augusta, by John M. Forest, in the fall of 1833. In 1834, William Skinner made a claim on Devil Creek, which is now known as Applegate's settlement. In the spring of 1835, there were several claims made; among them was Howard, who made a claim on Sugar Creek now known as Howard's settlement; also Thomas Clark, now known as Clark's point, and Alexander Cruikshank, now known as Cruikshank's point; also some others as hereafter described. Ellenor, daughter of Dr. Isaac Galland, was the first birth in the county (now Mrs. McPherson of Fort Madison). The first death was that of Mrs. Isaac R. Campbell at Nashville, in 1830; also the first school was taught there by Berryman Jennings, now a millionaire of Oregon. The first District Court was held at Fort Madison in the old Madison House, Judge Irvin presiding, and John H. Lines as clerk.

The first settlers were generally hardy pioneers from the western and southern States; in their manners they were hospitable, friendly and clever, would often go ten or twelve miles to help a new comer raise his cabin; courteous and obliging toward strangers and despised a low, mean, cunning act. Their mode of living was peculiar to all frontier settlers, seeking contentment in their rude log cabins, and faring sumptuously on their humble repast, johnny cake, venison, bacon and wild honey every day and roast pig on Sunday. Their sources of amusement being that of hunting, as at an early day the county abounded with game in large quantities. They were also very fond of shooting at a mark; they would often meet together and have shooting matches, and then, if whiskey could be obtained, a fight was not uncommon; but to take the majority of them there was not a more noble or well meaning class of people. It is true there were some few desperadoes and bad men, but they were held in check by the better disposed; if any contention happened to occur, it was generally settled by arbitration as there were no laws in existence here at that time.

To give the reader an idea of the rapid growth and increase of population we have prepared the following statistics showing the population of the county at each enumeration since the organization of the Iowa Territory:

1840.....6,095	1851.....17,625	1860.....29,232
1844.....9,830	1852.....20,360	1863.....28,523
1846.....12,860	1854.....22,590	1865.....28,063
1847.....13,231	1856.....27,273	1867.....31,417
1849.....15,000

The Half-Breed Tract.—What is commonly known as the "Half-Breed Tract" comprises an area in extent of 119,000 acres, which was reserved by the government for the use of the half-breeds of the Sac and Fox nations, by a treaty of the 4th of August, 1824. It occupies that portion of the county lying between the Mississippi and Des Moines river, and south of the line drawn from a point on the Des Moines river about one mile below Farmington east, touching the lower end of Fort Madison, to the Mississippi river. The title which the half-breeds received from the general government for this tract was the same as other Indian titles, the United States retaining a reversionary interest, which deprived the Indians of the power to sell. But in 1835 Congress passed an act relinquishing to the half-breeds the reversionary interest of the United States, and thus they became possessed of a fee simple title, and the right to sell and convey. It was the manner of this relinquishment that gave rise to the troubles about titles, inasmuch as the right to sell was not given to individuals by name but to the half-breeds as a class, which opened a door for innumerable frauds. Naturally enough difficulties about titles began after awhile to overshadow the half-breed tract. As no names were mentioned in the act of Congress giving the half-breeds the power to sell, it became difficult to fix with any approach to certainty upon the real owners. Most of them had sold out their interest before a partition was effected. Sometimes a full-blooded Indian sold; sometimes a half-breed of some other tribe palmed himself off for a half-breed Sac and Fox and made sales. Occasionally the same tract was sold to several persons successively; at other times individuals sold more than really belonged to them. From these causes the original claims had swelled to a large and indefinite number, in which it was almost impossible to detect the counterfeit, and titles became involved in bewildering confusion. In addition to all this, many persons had settled upon the lands with the idea that there was no title vested in any person, while many others supposed that the land still belonged to the general government and that they would be entitled to pre-emption rights as first settlers. Owing to these views, there was already a numerous population on the lands when the decree of partition was made who held defective titles, but who in numbers as well as determination were too formidable to be hastily removed. It may be easily conceived that instances of resistance to legal process were no unheard-of events, and that fierce excitement, violent mobocratic outbreaks, and even miniature battles took place. The decree title was made in 1841, and after Iowa became a state it was approved by all the courts of the state, and was sustained by the United States Supreme Court January 1st, 1854, removing the last cloud upon the decree title, making it indisputable, firm and effectual forever.

The Indians.—The Sac and Fox Indians were the original owners of the soil, and they existed in great numbers here. The Sac had their permanent location or village four miles above Montrose, on the Mississippi river, and the Fox had their village on the Des Moines river at a point now known as Iowaville. Keokuk (the watchful fox) was the chief of the Sac Indians—after whom the city of Keokuk was named. He was a native of the Sac nation of Indians, and was born about the year 1780. He was not a hereditary chief, but raised himself to that dignity by the force of talent and enterprise. He was a man of extraordinary eloquence in council, brave, and never at a loss in any emergency; was a noble looking man, about six feet high, portly, and would weigh over two hundred pounds. He had an eagle eye, dignified bearing, and a manly, intelligent expression of countenance. He had six wives, was fond of display, and on his visits of state to other tribes, moved in more savage magnificence than any other chief on the continent. Through the Blackhawk war, he remained peaceful, and for peace controlled a portion of his nation, and often lost popularity with his tribe by his efforts to keep them at peace with the United States, and nothing but his wonderful eloquence and tact sustained him. He was once deposed by his tribe and a young chief elected in his place, but his people, to their chagrin, soon discovered their mistake. Keokuk still ruled and rapidly attained his former position, until the year 1854, when he died in Missouri, and was succeeded as chief by his son, a sprightly youth.

Appanoose, the chief of the Fox Indians, was a sedate, quiet man, and much beloved by his tribe. Blackhawk was also a recognized chief of the Fox Indians—was a fine looking man, clever, friendly and hospitable, and possessing many sterling qualities. He never had but one wife, being opposed personally to the custom of polygamy. It is said that his met-am-o (old woman) was a good house wife. The arrangement of the interior wigwam was systematic and clean, and the burnished camp-kettle her greatest pride. His days were ended in the fall of 1838, on the east bank of the Des Moines river, at Stump-Town, (a point where the railroad diverges from the river below Iowaville,) now Independent.

Few counties in the State are more bountifully supplied with all the elements of material wealth, than the county of Lee; having an abundant supply of building stone, timber and water, and a soil of unsurpassed fertility. Although no valuable deposits of mineral wealth have been found within the limits of the county, nevertheless her citizens possess a mine of wealth in the rich soil everywhere overspreading the surface, of far more importance and greater value than the richest mineral deposits, accompanied as such deposits usually are, with a barren and unproductive soil.

The prairies have a rolling or undulating surface, and are covered by a rich, black, loamy soil from one to four feet in depth, unsurpassed in fertility by any territory of equal extent in the State.

Nearly the whole of Greenbay township, in the northeast corner of the county, is composed of alluvial bottom lands, and is by far the most valuable deposit of this kind in the county. This bottom was once subject to overflow at periods of high water; but, by a judicious system of leveling, it is now secured from inundation, except in seasons of extraordinary flood; and in point of fertility, it is hardly excelled by the far famed bottom lands of the Miami.

There are no lands in Lee county, or perhaps in the State of Iowa, capable of producing as great an amount of human food to the acre as those of the Greenbay bottoms. The inhabitants were formerly subject to periodical attacks of chill and fever; but since the surface has generally been brought under cultivation, and swampy portions cleared out and properly drained, they have enjoyed as good health generally, as those living on the high lands adjacent.

Between Fort Madison and Montrose there is a belt of what may be termed high bottoms, or terrace lands from three to four miles in width, which seem to belong to an older period than those just described, and consist of beds of sand and gravel, the surface of which is from twenty to thirty feet above the present high water level of the river, and yet bear strong marks of having been deposited by river floods when the bed of the Mississippi was at a considerable higher level than it occupies at present. As an evidence that the river along the rapids once occupied a much higher level, we have the fact that a band of Uniones (river mussels) extends on both sides of the river, at an elevation of from fifteen to twenty feet above the present high water mark, nearly the whole distance from Nauvoo to Keokuk. Just below the Mansion house at Nauvoo, this mussel band is twenty-five feet by measurement above the ordinary level of the river, in many places from twelve to eighteen inches thick; the shells worn perfectly white, and having the appearance of a white belt drawn along either shore. There is no way to account for this shell band along the rapids, except on the supposition that it marks what was once the low water level of the Mississippi River.

Some of the ridges on this high bottom are covered with sand, and destitute of soil; but the greater portion is well adapted to the growth of corn, from the great amount of silicious matter contained in the soil.

For the resources of the county, we make the following extracts from the Geology of Iowa:

Building and Flagging Stones.—Nearly every part of this county is supplied with good building rock, easily accessible, and costing at the present time no more than the labor of quarrying. The northeastern portion of the county is supplied from the beds of crinoidal limestone which outcrop on the bluff on the south side of Skunk river, as well as on Lost creek in the vicinity of Wilson's mill. This rock is usually a soft granular limestone in strata from six to fifteen inches thick, easily wrought, and well adapted for the ordinary purposes for which limestones are required. Some of the layers are semicrystalline and susceptible of good polish, and may be used as a marble. The Keokuk limestone also furnishes an abundant supply of good building material, and is accessible along the bluffs of the Mississippi from Montrose to Keokuk, and also one and a half miles southeast of Denmark, and at several points on Skunk and Des Moines rivers. The interior portion of the county, however, is mostly supplied from the Concretionary limestone which outcrops on both Sugar creeks, affording an abundant supply for the middle and western portions of the county. This bed also affords an excellent flagging stone in the vicinity of Denmark, where the upper layers are somewhat arenaceous and from two to four inches in thickness.

Quicklime.—Quicklime is made from all the limestones above named, though the Concretionary is undoubtedly the best adapted to this purpose. At Keokuk, the city is mainly supplied with this material from upper layers of the Keokuk limestones. Some layers of this bed, as well as a portion of the crinoidal limestone, afford a very good lime; but they usually contain too much arenaceous or siliceous material, and require to be selected with considerable care when used for the manufacture of lime.

Clay and Sand.—An inexhaustible supply of these materials for the manufacture of brick may be obtained from the Drift or Boulder formation in all parts of the county. The clays are accessible everywhere at a short distance below the surface; and the sands, which are mostly in the middle and lower part of the deposits, may be obtained in the bluffs of the streams and also in their beds. Fire clay, suitable for the manufacture of fire-brick and pottery, may usually be obtained from the underclay of the lower coal seam, outlayers of which are found at several points in this county.

Drift or Boulder Formation.—This deposit covers all the high lands in the county, and varies in thickness from fifty to one hundred and eighty-five feet. It is mostly composed of clay and gravel with occasional beds of sand, and is deposited without much regularity of stratification, and contains many worn and rounded masses of granite, gneiss, porphyry, hornblende and other primary rocks, together with limestone, sandstone, bits of coal and slate, all of which have been transported from points more or less remote from their present locality. Fragments of galena and native copper have also been found in it; but this should not be regarded as an indication of the existence of any workable bed of these minerals in the vicinity, as it only proves that a portion of the materials composing the drift has been transported from a region where these minerals abounded.

The only materials of economical value to be obtained from the Drift deposits are sands and clays. Sand of an excellent quality, suitable for moulder's use and cement, may be obtained in the river bluffs in abundance; and occasionally beds of clay, sufficiently pure for potter's use, may be procured from this formation.

The best wells of water are to be obtained by sinking to the subterranean streams that percolate through the sandy strata of this deposit. Usually, on the prairies, good water may be reached from twenty to forty feet below the surface.

In the bluffs immediately above Fort Madison, this deposit attains its maximum thickness of one hundred and eighty-five feet above the river level. The lower portion consists of a compact blue clay, containing a few pebbles; this passes into a marly ash-colored clay, which is overlaid by irregular beds of sand, and these by beds of yellowish clay with boulders. These bluffs occupy what seems to have been an ancient basin excavated in the limestone at a period antecedent to the Drift formation, and by causes which ceased to operate before the commencement of the Drift period. The limestone which, on the east side of the river, form high bluffs extending to the river bank, are entirely absent on the west, and their place is now occupied by the substitution of drift material, the valley thus scooped out of the solid rocks extends from Montrose to the mouth of Skunk river, and is from six to eight miles in width. The eastern portion of this ancient basin, except the bluffs on the river above Fort Madison, is now covered by the alluvial deposits before mentioned, while the western part is occupied by deposits of drift material from one hundred to one hundred and eighty-five feet in thickness. That this valley was formed by ancient currents previous to the Drift period is proved by the fact that a considerable portion of it is now occupied by the deposits of that age, and which must have been formed after those currents ceased to act.

Fossils.—The only fossils obtained as yet from the Drift formation of this region are a few shark's teeth and a fragment of silicious wood, which probably belong to a period somewhat older than the drift, and have been transported from some Tertiary or Cretaceous deposit over which the drift has passed.

Concretionary Limestone.—This member of the Mountain limestone series forms the surface rock, when the superficial material is removed, over at least three-fourths of the county, and, hence, in economical value, becomes one of the most important limestone deposits. It forms the upper portion of the bluffs from Croton, on the Des Moines, to Montrose, on the Mississippi; and, in the southeastern part of the county, is an irregular bedded, brecciated and concretionary limestone, of a steel or bluish-gray color, passing upward into a regularly bedded, nearly white, compact limestone at the top. It is by far the purest limestone in the county, and hence forms the best resource for the burning of quicklime. Its concretionary character in this part of the county renders it of little value as a building material; but in its more northerly and western extension, it becomes more regularly bedded in strata from two to twelve inches in thickness, and is extensively used in the interior and northwestern portions of the county for building purposes.

In Franklin, Marion, Westpoint and Pleasant Ridge townships, this rock may be obtained in great abundance on North Sugar Creek and the small tributaries of Skunk river; and in Charleston and Des Moines townships, it is found on the South or Sugar Creek of the Des Moines.

In the bluffs of the Des Moines, at the town of Croton, the bed exhibits both its most characteristic features: the lower portion, from fifteen to twenty feet in thickness, is concretionary and brecciated, with irregular seams of green marly clay; while above it becomes a regularly bedded light grey limestone, in strata from six to twenty inches in thickness, the upper layers having an oolitic structure. The material for the construction of the lock at this point was obtained from the upper part of this bed and the sandstone above it.

Magnesian Limestone.—Although this bed seldom exceeds ten or twelve feet in thickness, it has afforded a large amount of material for heavy masonry it has been used in the construction of the locks at several points on the Des Moines, and is admirably adapted to works of that kind, where strength and durability are mainly required. When first taken from the quarry, it is soft enough to cut with facility, but hardens on exposure and becomes exceedingly durable.

Keokuk Limestone.—The beds of rock to which this name has been given, consist of regularly stratified bluish grey limestones in strata from four inches to two feet in thickness, with seams of chert and blue marly clay between. This has been extensively quarried in the vicinity of Keokuk, and used for building purposes, to which it is well adapted. One stratum, near the base of the quarries, is a semicrystalline, light-grey crinoidal limestone, usually quite free from chert; being susceptible of a fine polish, it is well adapted for cutting, and is generally used for caps and sills.

This bed of rocks forms the base of bluffs from the mouth of the Des Moines to Montrose, and is also exposed on Lost Creek one mile and a half quity; it exists to some extent in Pleasant Ridge township, also has been obtained half a mile west of Tuscarora in Marion township and within two miles southwest of West Point. Neither the quantity or quality of the coal justifies the working of the seam at these points.

The county has the following Townships: Cedar, Charleston, Denmark, Des Moines, Franklin, Green Bay, Harrison, Jackson, Jefferson, Madison, Marion, Montrose, Pleasant Ridge, Van Buren, Washington, West Point.

For a description of each, read the following sketches.

Cedar

Is located in the northwest corner of the county, is bounded on the east by Marion, west by Van Buren county, north by Henry county and south by Harrison township. The surface of the country is level, and principally prairie land; the soil is fertile and well adapted to raising the common productions of the soil; wool growing is carried on very extensively, having a large amount of grass land in the township, it is peculiarly favorable. Among the first settlers we may mention Mr. Maloy, Isaac and George McDaniel, Messrs. Hott, Davis and Bell; these came in about the year 1838.

The Township contains four churches, viz: Baptist, organized in 1861, numbering about fifty-three members, located at Big Mound; also Christian Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal; there are nine school districts with an average attendance of three hundred and fifty scholars.

BIG MOUND is the only village in the Township, situated about the center of the same and contains a population of about 75 inhabitants, also one church, two general stores, one physician and one blacksmith shop.

Post Office—Big Mound, Charles F. Blair, P. M.

We give below the following statistics from the Assessor's returns for 1867:

Number of Polls, 207; number of acres of land in Township, 22,417, value, $280,841; total amount of personal property, $69,963; total, real and personal, $353,704.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, George A. Kennedy; Assessor, Isaac Cook; Justices of the Peace, John Alexander and A. Doan; Trustees, William Davis, Joseph Baylies and Joseph Kennedy; Constable, Joseph Pease; Supervisor, D. R. Heaton.

Charleston

Is in the third tier of townships from the north, and second east of the western boundary.

The country is rolling, about one half prairie, and the other timber; the soil is fertile, and well adapted to raising corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, &c.; it is watered by the Des Moines Sugar Creek, which traverses this township in the southwest part running in a southeast direction; good building stone is found along this creek.

The first settlement was made in the year 1834, by Thomas McGuire, William Kilgore, David Coon, Robert Grewell, George Moore and John Robinson, along Sugar Creek, in the southwest part of the township; the first death in the township was that of Paulding Timmons, and the first birth, William Timmons.

CHARLESTON is situated nearly in the center of the township, about sixteen miles northwest from Keokuk, eight miles from Montrose, and five miles from Croton, this being the nearest railroad point, and nine miles southwest from Fort Madison, the County Seat. The town was platted by Robert Robinson, in the year 1845; it now contains a population of 200 inhabitants, and three churches, viz, Baptist, organized in 1845, has at the present time about seventy-five members, and a good substantial church edifice; the Methodist Episcopal are now building a new church edifice 30x40; number of members, fifty, and Methodist; two schools, one public school and one select school. The business of the place comprise three dry goods and groceries, two family groceries, three boot and shoe makers, one blacksmith shop, two saloons and one wagon shop.

NEW BOSTON is situated about two miles south of Charleston, contains about one hundred inhabitants; one church, one school house, one general store, one hotel, one blacksmith shop, one shoe shop.

Post Offices—Charleston, Peter M. Lowden, P. M., New Boston, L. C. Rankin, P. M.

The following are some statistics from the last returns for 1867: Number of polls in the Township, 112; acres of land, 19,332; value $111,666; capital employed in manufacturing purposes $475; total personal property $77,772; total, real and personal, $147,639.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, William Potts; Assessor, J. Ried; Trustees, Jacob Rambeau, Smith Lamb and Andrew Schafer; Justices of the Peace, Henry Walker and G. N. Vermillion; Constables, M. V. Derr and P. Tiggins; Supervisor, George Stanwood.

Denmark

Is in the northern tier of townships, and second from the eastern boundary, and bound on the east by Skunk river. The surface of the country is rolling and mostly prairie, although it is well timbered along the Skunk river, which affords excellent water power. The soil is rich and very productive. Among the first settlers we may mention Spurlock, John Whiteaker, John M. Forrest, John O. Smith, John Wren, Don McKenzie and Hardin Rattan. Mr. Whiteaker erected a saw mill at the present site of South Augusta, as early as 1835. John M. Forest made a claim on section 25 in the eastern part of the township; John O. Smith located near the present site of the town of Denmark, in the spring of 1835. The first white child born in the township was a son of John O. Smith, in August, 1835.

DENMARK is situated on a strip of prairie between the timber on the Skunk river and Lost Creek, in the southwestern part of the township, eight miles north of Fort Madison, and eighteen miles southwest of Burlington. It is on the daily stage line and mail route from Burlington to Farmington. We may say the town owes its existence to a party of early settlers from New Hampshire, who settled here in 1836. Among them were Timothy Fox, Lewis Epps, Curtis Shedd, Samuel Houston, Edward Hills and Cyrus Fletcher. In 1837, they laid out the town, and it was named by John Edwards, who was on a visit from the east.

In the winter of 1837, the first step was taken toward the advancement of education, by building a school house, Miss Eliza Houston being the first teacher.

Much attention has been paid to the culture of hedges, fruit and shade trees, giving the place a rural beauty perhaps unsurpassed in the west.

The present population is five hundred, including the village plat and the country for one mile around and adjacent to the same. It contains two churches, viz: Congregational, organized in 1837, by Asa Turner, who is still their pastor; they have a fine church edifice, built of brick, and number over two hundred members. Also a Baptist, organized in 1848, J. Lewellen, pastor: 88 members.

The business of the place comprises two general stores, three wagon makers, one blacksmith shop, one shoemaker, and one cheese factory.

The Denmark Academy is located here; was incorporated in February, 1843. The present school edifice is a fine lime stone building, unsurpassed for its architectural beauty and the arrangement of the grounds surrounding it. It is furnished with a good apparatus, cabinet and library. It has three courses—scientific, ladies' and classical—on the completion of which diplomas are given. It is sustained by tuition. The last annual catalogue shows a list of two hundred and eighteen pupils, from fifteen different States and Territories. H. K. Edson, the principal, has had charge of the institution for the past twelve years.

SOUTH AUGUSTA—A small village situated in the northeast corner of the township, about three miles northeast from Denmark, on the Skunk river. It contains one saw-mill and one grist-mill, and has a population of seventy-five inhabitants. Postoffice at Denmark—J. E. Ingalls, postmaster.

We give the following from the last census returns: Number of polls in township, 163; acres of land, 12,460; value, $110,713; number of cattle, 735; value, $9,893; horses, 390; capital employed in manufactures, $1075. Total personal property, $76,889; total tax, $228,046.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, C. Pyle; Trustees, E. Levitt, F. M. Johnson and Layman Marsh; Justices of the Peace, H. Eggleston and R. M. Joy; Constables, Rufus Underwood and ——— Farnsworth; Supervisor, Thos. Taylor.

Des Moines

Is in the second tier of township from the south, and is bounded on the west and south by the Des Moines river, on the east by Montrose, and north by Charleston townships. The D. V. R. R. passes through the south-west part of the township. The surface of the country is rolling, and about equally divided with timber and prairie. The soil is sandy, and watered by the Des Moines river, which bounds it on the south and west; and Sugar Creek, which traverses the township in a south-easterly direction. There are six school houses in the township, with an average attendance of 300 scholars. There are also three church organizations in the township, viz: Baptist, organized in 1865, numbering 54 members; Mormon and Methodist Episcopal. There is also one saw-mill located on the railroad, one mile from Vincennes. The early settlement was made by William and Robert Mix, John Phillips, Johnson Meeks, James and William Allen, along the Des Moines river.

VINCENNES is situated in the south-western part of the township, on the Des Moines Valley Railroad, and 14 miles north-west of Keokuk. It is the only town and post-office in the township; P. C. James, Postmaster. It was first platted by Joseph Pigman, in 1856, and Patrick Harrington was the first to locate in the village. The present population is 150, and contains one school house, one general store, one blacksmith shop, one hotel, and two physicians. It is the shipping point for the township.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, A. J. Knowles; Assessor, Henry J. Alvis, Sr.; Trustees, John B. Cruze, H. C. Sargent, and C. P. James; Justices of the Peace, L. B. Maltby and Henry J. Alvis, Sr.; Constables, Levi Ward and Asbury Hall; Supervisor, L. B. Maltby.

Franklin

Is in the second tier of township from the north, and second from the west. The surface of the country is rolling, being mostly prairie, and with a fair supply of timber. Sugar Creek runs through the north-west part of the township, where stone coal has been found to some extent. Good lime stone for building purposes is found along Sugar Creek. The soil is a black loam and very fertile, being well adapted to raising corn, wheat, oats, rye, &c. They have two brick-yards in operation, and make a very good quality of brick. The township was first settled in 1837, by Alexander Cruikshank, John J. Wiegner, Josiah Clifton, Charles McVey, William Howard, Joseph Howard, Thomas and J. C. Chapman. The first birth was that of James, son of Alexander Cruikshank, and the first death that of Thomas Chapman. There are five district school houses, all good substantial buildings, with an average attendance of 400 scholars.

FRANKLIN CENTRE is situated in the south-east part of the township, eight miles west of Fort Madison, the county-seat, and 22 miles north of Keokuk, from which they receive a daily mail. The town was platted in 1840, and was at one time intended for the county-seat of Lee county. It is a substantially built town, most of the buildings being built of brick and lime stone, and contains a population of 600 inhabitants; has three church edifices, Presbyterian, Evangelic Lutheran, and Minionites; one school house built of stone, 26x40, and have also in course of erection two new school houses by the church denominations. The Odd Fellows have an organization—Germania Lodge No. 112, A. Ehinger, N. G.; John Roeder, V. G.; Ignatz Bohe, Treasurer; Henry Rhoda, Secretary. Most of the inhabitants are of German descent, and have shown their enterprise by erecting a fine woolen mill at this point. It has been in operation about two years, and within the last few months has been compelled to increase their facilities and size of building. The main building is 22x52, three stories high, and built of brick. The addition made this last spring is 29x37; the machinery is run by steam, 25-horse power, and employ 20 hands, mostly female. They are known as the Franklin Manufacturing Company. There is also one saw-mill, one flouring mill, three dry goods and groceries, four boot and shoemakers, four blacksmiths shops, one saddle and harness maker, one tin-shop, two tailors, three wagon makers, and one hotel.

DOVER is also a small post village, situated about five miles north-west of Franklin Centre, and contains one general store and blacksmith shop.

Postoffices.—Franklin Centre, C. Rauscher, Postmistress; Dover, Barbara Dickey, Postmistress

The total number of polls in 1867 was 308; acres of land in the township, 21,537, value $178,980; capital employed in manufacturing, $10,675; total personal property, $104,932; total tax, $305,615.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, John J. Eyman; Justices of the Peace, J. M. Walker and J. S. Gilmore; Trustees, Jacob Kriebbiel, August Ehinger and Adam Wiegner; Assessor, J. S. Gilmore; Supervisor, John Hæffner.

Green Bay

Is situated in the extreme eastern portion of the county, in the second tier of townships from the north; bounded on the south and east by the Mississippi river, north by Skunk river, and west by Washington township. The township is encircled on the west and south by a range of bluffs, extending for several miles—the township resembling the appearance of a bay. The soil is a deep black loam, and superior to any in the county for the production of corn, wheat, oats, &c., Cattle raising is carried on very extensively in this township. Along the bluffs and the river timber is in abundance, consisting mostly of oak, walnut, cottonwood and some hickory; also good building stone. There is a bay in the southern part of the township, about five miles long and one-fourth of a mile wide, emptying itself in the Mississippi river at the southwest corner.

Among the early settlers we may mention William Saucer and the Smalls, who settled here in 1835. William Franklin came in 1837, and Joel Smith, William Lucas, J. Clay Poole, John Haynes and McCowen settled in 1838. William Lucas named the township, but whether he chose the name from its appearance as such, or because it contained a bay, we are not able to say, but the name is very appropriate.

JOLLYVILLE—Is the only village in the township. It is about seven miles northwest of Fort Madison, and contains one general store and one blacksmith shop. Postoffice at Jollyville—J. Junge, postmaster.

Number of polls in township, 159; acres of land, 19,870; value, $134,816. Total personal property, $51,951; total real and personal, $126,574.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, John Shephard; Samuel Peel, Assessor; Jacob Rake and Nicholas Beitz, Justices of the Peace; Monroe Rodgers, Constable; James Tebbs, Supervisor.

Harrison

Is in the second tier of townships from the north, and is bounded on the west by Van Buren county, east by Franklin, and south by Van Buren townships. The surface of the country is rolling and mostly prairie; is well timbered along the streams. Sugar Creek forks at the southeast corner of the township, running in a southeasterly direction, by which the township is watered. The soil is a deep black loam and very rich. Wool growing is carried on to some extent. There are three churches in the township—Congregational, Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal—and eight district schools.

The first settlement was made in the spring of 1838, by Anton Washaar, Conrad Schwar, and Isaac Beeler. Anton Washaar was a Frenchman by birth and served as a soldier in the French army, and was engaged in the battle of Waterloo under General Bonaparte. He is still living in the township, at the advanced age of 88 years, being still hale and hearty. Malinda Schwar, daughter of Conrad Schwar, was the first white child born in the township, and now the wife of Louis Klinder. A Mr. Stewart was the first death in the township.

PRIMROSE—Is the only town in the township, located one mile east half south of the centre of the township, in sections 22 and 23, on the edge of the prairie.

It is twenty miles west of Fort Madison, (the county seat,) twenty-eight miles northwest of Keokuk, and 10 miles northeast of Farmington, Van Buren county, this being the nearest railroad communication. It has a population of 109 inhabitants, and was laid out in 1849, and named by Mrs. E. S. McCulloch. It contains three church organizations—Methodist, Presbyterian and German Lutheran—one district school, with an average attendance of 108 scholars.

The business of the place comprises three dry goods stores and groceries, two hotels, two blacksmiths, two boot and shoemakers, one cabinet maker, one carpenter, one tailor, one carriage and wagon shop, and one painter. Postoffice at Primrose—B. C. Burt, postmaster.

The following are the assessor's returns for 1867: Number of polls, 229; number of acres of land, 23,029; value, $283,700; capital employed in manufacturing, $505. Total personal property, $106,306; total tax, $394,701.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, T. G. Ehrnman; Assessor, Jas. A. Davis; Justices of the Peace, B. C. Burt and Samuel Hill; Trustees, John Taylor, W. J. Robinson and Conrad Schwar, Jr.; Constable, Samuel Bell; Supervisor, D. Reesman.

Jackson

Is situated in the extreme south part of the county, bounded on the east and south by the Mississippi river, on the west by the Des Moines river, and north by Montrose township. The surface of the country is hilly along the Mississippi river; in the interior it becomes rolling. The soil is fertile and well adapted to the culture of the grape.

SANDUSKY is situated about six miles north of Keokuk, on the line of the Keokuk & St. Paul Railway. Monsieur Lemoliese, a French trader, occupied the present site of Sandusky, being engaged in traffic with the Indians. It was known at that time by the name of Lemoliese. He settled here as early as 1821, and probably the first made by a white man in the county. Monsieur had a very amiable lady for a wife, who was fond of dress. She frequently, to please him, arrayed her person in gown, bonnet and shoes, but could not be prevailed upon to continue the costume, as her native garb, the blanket and petticoat, were more congenial to her feelings and taste.

KEOKUK—(See sketch preceding Keokuk Directory.)

Postoffices—Keokuk, J. C. Parrott, P. M.; Sandusky, Thos. Jarvis, P. M.

Jefferson

Is located in the third tier of township from the north, and bounded on the east by the Mississippi river, north by West Point, south by Montrose, and west by Charleston townships. The Keokuk and St. Paul Railway runs through the eastern portion of the township, giving the township good transportation facilities. The soil is equal to any in the county, the surface being generally rolling and well timbered along the streams. There are several small streams running through the township—Devil Creek, Painter Creek and Sugar Creek, by which the township is watered. The first settlement was made by William Skinner and Hugh Wilson. William Skinner settled in 1834, on Devil Creek, but previous to this he was engaged by the Quartermaster to erect the Barracks at Camp Des Moines, (now Montrose,) and he was the first man to settle back from the river.

JEFFERSONVILLE, situated on the line of the Keokuk and St. Paul Railway, is the only Postoffice in the township—Daniel Weese, Postmaster. It contains one general store and blacksmith shop. The following are the Assessor's returns for 1867: Number of polls, 206; number of acres of lands, 20,417, value $132,838; total taxable property, $59,901; real and personal, $192,714.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, G. Arnold; Assessor, John Maxfield; Trustees, Benjamin Skyles, C. Crossley and John Maxfield; Justices of the Peace, William Conlee and D. J. Dobson; Constables, Hugh Buzard and B. McBride; Supervisor, J. W. Goodrich.

Madison

Is in the third tier of township from the north, and second tier from the east, bounded on the south by the Mississippi river, on the north by Washington, and west by Jefferson townships. Fort Madison is the only town in this township, (see sketch preceding Fort Madison Directory.) Post-office, Fort Madison, Rebecca Adams, Postmistress. We give the following statistics from the Assessor's returns of 1867: Number of polls, 550; number of acres, 2,438½, value $39,020; amount of capital employed in manufacturing, $42,405; total taxable personal property, $386,982; total real and personal, $838,597.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, W. O. Hoover; Assessor, W. C. Hershberger; Board of Trustees, James F. Marr, J. B. Bentlage and Conrad Schaper; Justices of the Peace, P. Gilligam and R. H. Heath; Supervisors, Frank B. Kent and Joseph Hollman.

Marion

Is located in the northern tier of township and second tier from the west, and bounded on the north by Henry county. The surface of the country is rolling and watered by Sugar Creek, which traverses the township in a south-easterly direction. The soil is a deep black loam, very productive, and well timbered along the streams—mostly oak and hickory. Lime stone and stone coal are among the resources of the township. There are four churches, viz: Baptist, Quaker, Presbyterian, and Catholic; also, ten district schools. It was first settled in 1835 by Z. Cleveland, in the south-east corner of the township. Elias Overton, Solomon Jackson, William and David Newcomb, John Taylor and William Dodd settled here about the year 1836.

ST. PAUL is situated about seven miles north of Franklin, and twenty-nine miles from Keokuk, and fourteen miles north-west from Fort Madison. Has a population of 150 inhabitants, contains two church organizations, Presbyterian and Catholic; also, one district school. The inhabitants are principally of German descent. The business of the place consists of three groceries and dry goods, one clothing store, two blacksmith shops, two boot and shoe makers, and one wagon maker.

PILOT GROVE is located in this township—contains a population of 175 inhabitants, and is a thriving little village; contains two churches, also, one district school. There are, also, two blacksmith shops, one wagon maker and agricultural implements, two dry goods and groceries, and two shoe makers.

CLAY GROVE is situated in the south-east part of the township, about twenty-five miles north of Keokuk, and seven miles north-west from Franklin. It contains one church, (Baptist,) organized in 1867; number of members, 36; also, one dry goods and grocery store, and one blacksmith shop. Postoffices—St. Paul, John Schroeder, Postmaster; Pilot Grove, George Moon, Postmaster; Clay Grove, I. C. Abbott, Postmaster. Number of polls, 282; acres of land, 23,040, value $767,472; capital employed in manufacturing, $582; personal property, $111,464; total tax, $275,254.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, Miles Webster; Assessor, C. C. McCord; Justices of the Peace, Henry South and T. B. Huff; Trustees, Wesley Harrison, George Moon and J. W. Miller; Constable, Daniel Jacobs; Supervisor, Elias Overton.

Montrose

Is bounded on the east by the Mississippi river, on the north by Jefferson, on the west by Des Moines, and south by Jackson townships. Montrose is the principal town in the township—is situated on the bank of the Mississippi river, being at the head of the rapids, and on the Keokuk and St. Paul Railway, twelve miles from Keokuk. Montrose was originally a cantonment, called Camp Des Moines, which was built by Lt.-Col. Stephen W. Kearney, in the summer of 1834, under the supervision of Lt. Crossman, U. S. Quartermaster, and was occupied about the last of September by three companies of the First U. S. Dragoons, the post being under the command of Lt.-Col. Stephen W. Kearney, and the command consisted of companies B, H and I, commanded respectively by Captains E. V. Sumner, Nathaniel Boon (son of Daniel Boon) and Jesse B. Brown. (Col. J. C. Parrott, the present Postmaster at Keokuk, was a member of company I.) These troops remained at Camp Des Moines until the spring of 1837, when they were removed to Fort Leavenworth. Prior to the encampment of the troops this was an Indian village—Chief's name in English was "Cut-nose." The first settlement made here after being vacated by the Indians was that of Captain James White, in 1832. He enclosed about seven acres of ground, procured fencing timber from the Island opposite, and erected a double-log house on the slope near the creek, about thirty rods from the river. Upon the arrival of the U. S. troops, the Government purchased his claim, and the house was used as a hospital to the post. William Skinner, also, came in about that time, and was employed by the Quartermaster in erecting barracks. In the same fall he made a claim on Devil Creek. The next improvement was made by Stephen H. Burtis, about half a mile above the camp. Also, at the same time, a little farther down, a cabin was built and occupied by Ezra Overall, and Thomas Taylor lived near the camp. There existed many traces of what was thought a former settlement around the camp, most prominent of which was the "old orchard" of apple trees, a short distance below, and contained at that time ten or fifteen trees in bearing condition. The fruit was very ordinary, being of a common seedling. The Indians were in the habit of visiting the orchard and gathering the fruit in its green state, so none of it was allowed to come to perfection. There was, also, some sage bushes growing in the prairie to the rear of the camp. There were, also, visible in the same localities, the remains of dirt or doby chimneys, and many mounds. There were, in an early day, and to the present time, many speculations and conjectures as to their origin. As to the origin of the apple trees, we have heard many versions; the following is undoubtedly the most correct: A half-breed Indian of the Sac and Fox nation, by the name of Red Bird, (known among the whites as Thomas Abbott,) who had his "wick-e-up" contiguous to the locality of these trees, as early as 1790. As he was in the habit of making annual visits to St. Louis to receive their supply of blankets from the Indian Agent, General Clark, and upon one of these visits he stopped a few days at St. Charles, on the Missouri river; upon his leaving he was presented with some apple trees by a "nish-e-shin che-mi-co-man," (good white man,) who instructed him how to plant them. As to the mounds, some thought they were fortifications used by the Spaniards, and others that they were the burial places of the Indians; the latter is undoubtedly correct, as some of the early settlers witnessed Indian burials in them. Montrose was laid off as a town by D. W. Kilbourne, in 1837, (after the removal of the troops) and called it Montrose. It now contains a population of 900 inhabitants, and five churches, viz: Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant, Mormon and Presbyterian. They have, also, in course of erection a fine district school house, and one Masonic Lodge No. 136, Odd Fellows No. 66, and Good Templars No. 33. The business of the place comprises four dry goods and groceries, two drug stores, two blacksmiths shops, two wagon makers, one saw and planing mill, one distillery, one flour mill, four saloons, two hotels, one lime kiln, three boot and shoe makers, one boat builder, one lawyer and three physicians.

TOWN OFFICERS.—S. P. Carter, Mayor; William Skinner, Marshal; Geo. Anderson, Recorder. Councilmen—J. M. Anderson, Fred. Hahn, Thos. Ellis, Hiram Scranton and H. M. Patten. School Board—H. H. Winther, President; Hiram Spencer, Secretary; L. M. Sloanaker, Treasurer; S. L. Williams and Thomas Ellis, Directors.

NASHVILLE is situated about two miles and a half below Montrose, in the eastern part of the township. It was first settled in 1829 by Dr. Isaac Galland.

SUMMITVILLE is a small village situated on Charleston Plank Road, and in the southern part of the township. The County Poor House is located near this place; it also contains one general store, one hotel, and one blacksmith and wagon shop.

Post-Offices—Montrose, J. M. Anderson, P. M.; Summitville, Jacob Renwold, P. M.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, J. Smith; Assessor, J. C. Braddock; Trustees, John Schooley, Alonzo Crandel and C. B. Brownfield; Justices of the Peace, H. Montgomery, J. Conlee and Jacob Renwold; Constables, William Skinner, Ambrose Gibbons and A. Q. Ball; Supervisor, Charles Brown.

Pleasant Ridge

Is situated in the northern tier of township and third tier from the west; is bounded on the north by Henry county, on the south by West Point, on the east by Denmark and on the west by Marion townships. The surface of the country is rolling prairie, and well timbered in the northeast part of the township. The soil is rich and fertile, and well adapted to raising corn, wheat, oats, rye, &c. Sheep raising is carried on here to some extent, although not so extensively as in Cedar and Marion. Lost Creek runs through the southeast part of the township, and the Skunk river through the northwest corner. There are no towns in the township; their post office and market is West Point, being situated about one-half mile south of the township line.

Among the first settlers we may mention George and W. Berry, who settled in the northwest part of the township, Thomas Foggy, William and Thomas Clarke. There are several schools in the township.

The following are the assessor's returns for 1867: Polls, 178; number of acres of land, 22,202; value, $158,343; total taxable personal property, $77,081; total real and personal, 222,424.

Van Buren

Is located in the third tier of townships from the north; is bounded on the west by the Des Moines river and Van Buren county, north by Harrison, and east by Charleston townships. The surface of the country is rolling prairie, but somewhat broken along the river. The soil is a rich black loam and very productive; sand and lime stone are found here; also stone coal has just been discovered, and of good quality. The Des Moines river runs through the southwest part of the township, affording an excellent water power; also the Des Moines Sugar Creek through the northeast corner. It was settled in 1836, by Lewis D. Kent, Lewis Crow, Abraham Hinkle, Mr. Haggard, (a Campbellite preacher,) and Mr. Chance. Lewis D. Kent erected a cabin about half a mile below the present site of Croton, on the Des Moines river. Abraham Hinkle settled about four miles north of the present site of Croton, on the prairie, and planted the first orchard in the township. Lucinda Kent, or Gravel Crow, was the first white child born in the township.

In April, 1837, Israel Cameron settled here, about a half mile above Croton, and in 1843 established the first day school in his yard, with fifteen scholars. David Galland settled here about the same time, and was the first Justice of the Peace in the township. In the early settlement, the Indians were very numerous—about ten to one white—and quarreled among themselves. At one time they tried to kill their chief, (old Keokuk,) while in his tent at Sweet Home. He was intemperate in his habits, and when Joe Smith tried to induce him to join the Mormons, by representing to him Heaven as a land flowing with milk and honey, he (Keokuk) said he preferred whiskey.

CROTON—Is situated in the eastern part of the township, on the line of the Des Moines Valley Railroad, and on the Des Moines river, opposite Athens, Mo. The town was platted on the first day of June, 1849, surveyed by George Berry, and owned by Lewis Crow. It now contains a population of 150 inhabitants, has two churches, viz: Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian—B. C. Beaman, pastor. The business of the place consists of two general stores two blacksmiths, 1 wagon shop.

WARREN—Situated in the eastern part of the township, contains one church, (Baptist,) organized in 1860; also one general store and one blacksmith.

Postoffices: Belfast—A. Loncher, Postmaster; Croton, S. Saltsgaver, Postmaster; Warren, J. C. Walker, Postmaster.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS—Clerk, Bradley Kellogg; Assessor, Jasper O'Neill; Trustees, George Ephlen, Henry Simons and John Scott; Justices of the Peace, George Currier and Amos Henkle; Constables, John Johnson and O. H. Martin; Supervisor, Joseph Clark.

Washington

Is located in the second tier of township from the north and second from the eastern boundary. Lost Creek is the only stream in the township running through the northeastern part. The first settlement was made by John Box in 1833 near the present site of Fort Madison, and erected the first cabin the same year, and about this time Ebenezer Ayres, Mrs. Parmer and her two sons, Devore and Licurgus, Joshua Owens, Samuel Ross, Jas. Smith, John Small, John Gregg, P. P. Jones and Dr. Gilmore. D. F. Box, son of John Box, was the first white child born in the township, March, 1835, and Ebenezer Ayres (the father of E. D. Ayres) was the first death. He died at the age of 76, in October, 1835.

There are several district schools and one church (Campbellite.) No business done in the township. Their post office and market town is Fort Madison.

There are also two nurseries—Hazeldell nursery, one mile and a quarter northwest of Fort Madison, on the Denmark road. This nursery has just been opened, will have thirty-two and a half acres under culture, and will make a specialty of small fruits. Lee Hull & Son's nursery is situated four miles northwest of Fort Madison, on the Denmark road. Has been established nineteen years; have now under cultivation forty acres, comprising all the different varieties adapted to the climate. They have also a vineyard at their residence in Fort Madison; have forty to fifty varieties of vines; also one green house fifty feet long, and keep all kinds of green house plants.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS—Clerk, Thilton Wright; Assessor, G. W. Redman; Trustees, — Guthrie, Samuel Willard and Charles Hyde; Justices of the Peace, Henry Dye and William Richards; Constables, Frank Snapp and William Sidney; Supervisor, Otway Cutler.

West Point

Is in the second tier of township from the north, and third tier from the west. The surface of the country is rolling and mostly prairie land. Sugar

Creek and Pitman Creek are two of the principal streams that traverse this township, and are well timbered. The soil is good and well adapted to all root crops—corn being one of their staples. The township is supplied with good building materials.

The first settlement was made by Lewis Pitman, in 1834, about one and a half mile east of the present site of the town of West Point. John L. Cotton, Lewis Jackson, James Scott, Horatio McCardle and Alexander Majors and others came in about the year 1835. The first white child born in the township was William Scott, son of James Scott, in 1836, and the first death was that of Dudley Scott, on the first of May, 1836.

West Point is situated in the northeast corner of the township, twenty miles west of Burlington, and ten miles northwest from Fort Madison, (the county seat,) this being their nearest railroad communication and shipping point for the township. They receive a daily mail from both places.

The first claim was made by Whiteaker; he sold to John Howell and John L. Cotton, in 1835, by whom the town was first laid out, about half a mile south of the present town plat. It then went by the name of Cotton town (or Decatur.) In 1836, he sold the claim to Abraham Hunzicker, who had the present town platted, and changed the name to West Point. A short time after, he sold out to Alexander Walker, William Patterson, (now of Keokuk,) Green Casey and Hawkins Taylor. The first house built in the town was a small log building, near the northwest corner of the Public Square, in 1835, which is still standing. The first brick building erected in the town was a Presbyterian church, one block west of the northwest corner of the Public Square. (This was the first brick building erected in Lee County.)

West Point was originally the county seat, but was removed to Ft. Madison in the fall of 1845. The old court house is still standing in the square, and at the present time is used as a district school. It is a good substantial brick building, 50 by 60 feet, and two stories high. The park or square surrounding it has lately been planted with forest trees, which will, when grown up, give to the place a rural beauty. It contains six churches, viz: Baptist, organized in 1859, and numbers about sixty members; Catholic, Rev. Hottenberger, pastor, have in course of erection a fine church edifice which will cost, when completed, over $20,000; German Methodist Episcopal; they have also a fine church edifice costing $8,000; Methodist Episcopal, Rev. George H. Clark, pastor; Presbyterian, Rev. Mr. Knight, pastor; edifice built in 1860 at a cost of $1,000; Unionites, J. C. Kriebbiel, pastor, and one other organization, the German Lutheran. Besides the district school there are three select schools in the town—P. P. Roots', Mrs. Martin's, and a Catholic school conducted by the Sisters of Mercy. They have one Masonic society, West Point Lodge No. 75, numbering about thirty-two members.

We give the following items of its manufacturing facilities and business: Two flour mills—the West Point mills owned and operated by Herman; Brinck, a good substantial brick, cost $15,000; it is 45x60 and three stories high, with an addition for engine room 60x20. They use an engine of 40-horse power, and run three burs; capacity per day (24 hours) 80 barrels employ four men; the other a good stone building, A. Stewart, proprietor; three furniture manufactories, one tannery, one saw mill, one brewery, six dry goods stores, seven groceries, two stove and tinware, two hotels, five physicians, two lawyers, two druggists, five boot and shoemakers, three saddle and harness makers, two brick yards, three carpenters and builders, three saloons, and four blacksmith and wagon shops.

CITY OFFICERS.—David Wright, Mayor; Herman Brinck, Recorder; J. C. Mitchell, Seldon Peters, Jacob Lutz, Alexander Carstein and Herman Dingman, Trustees; David Smith, Marshal; School Board, John Kemper, President; J. H. Wilson, Vice President; William Werner, Treasurer; H. Welsing, Secretary; Directors, J. H. Wilson, Herman Dingman, David Smith.

The following are the Assessor's returns for 1867: Number of polls, 183; capital employed in manufacturing, $4,445; total taxable personal property, $59,313; total real and personal, $111,786.

Township Returns—Number of polls, 199; acres of land, 22,974, value $181,477; total taxable property, $60,932; total real and personal, $222,300.

Post-Office—West Point, Herman Wesling, P. M.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.—Clerk, J. H. Wilson; Assessor, Henry Snively; Trustees, Alexander Carstein, Jr., John Henricks and Joseph Fedler; Justices of the Peace, J. H. Wilson and William Werner; Constables, Peter Lory and Seldon Peters; Supervisor, David Wright.
